

Hello again readers; I will cover, as the title in this article suggests, the workings of the HGA, or also known as the Holy Guardian Angel. For those that do not know what an HGA is, see this Wiki Page.

My interest in my own HGA was sparked a while ago and before that I never really took an interest because I thought that it was hard in the Abramelenian sense; I thought that you had to undertake the difficult steps in the Abramelin to meet up with one's own. But then it dawned on me that it should be possible to summon him via a general occult invocation. After doing the usual divinatory work that gave me the green light to proceed, but to also be wary of him doing damage to my direct environment I got to work. I converted my own first name into Hebrew and then made the seal with a rose cross. My own research showed him as a solar angel, corresponding to Leo (18°). And guess what? I was born on Sept. 29th, 1985 which is...a Sunday. He was the type to instigate and cause great transformations within me. I personally have no need of his services due to the fact that I already have my patron, and besides, he is not very fond of me and the feeling is mutual. This invocation was solely for research/ informative purposes.

A few hours before the ritual the first odd thing happened; I heard a loud buzz in my ear as if a large humming bee was right beside me and swatted my ear but nothing; I was inside and my apartment is completely shut. I looked everywhere and blew things too but not even a mosquito in sight. I was like "Okayyyy...". Then the ritual.

During the Invocation I had difficulty hearing him and he told me that he will appear to me in time and tell me what I want to know, but that he finds it hard to come through; my patron, my Lord Samael, came in between the conversation near the end and told me that it is done. Right before closing the power goes out and I finish up which took 5 minutes. I meet the Landlord outside and he tells me that someone damaged the breakers which caused the outage. Here's the thing; the breakers are in a place where no-one ever goes and in the 5 years of me living here no-one has ever done so before. It is also high up the wall, so difficult to access. To top it all off, I live in the apt. closest to it so I would've heard someone if that was the case; the Landlord seemed spooked too, and just rushed me off with "It's fixed, never mind". He also seemed puzzled by the fact that it happened like that and so fast. My reaction was again as before, but I was glad that my HGA at least didn't do any major damage.

He told me all I wanted to know, to sum up:

- . “Is there a specific reason for you being assigned to me at/ during/ before birth?”- No.
- . “Your name”- and this was hard for him to do so, had to try a few times before he was able to come through clear enough- My own, so Morino; he told me that HGA’s (sometimes) don’t have traditional angelic names so his name is mine and vice versa.
- . “What do you look like?”- He briefly appeared before me like this silhouette of a Tall, slender & transparent man. Odd since I expected the general angelic look with wings etc. but nope.....He lastly asked me to inspire others to seek out their own HGA by writing this.

HGA’s are harder to invoke and communicate with I’ve noticed, but it can be done.

I will end by saying that I helped a female friend with her troubled life too by pointing her towards her own HGA and she couldn’t be happier; he is cleaning house for her, so to speak.

Note: There are several entities that are described and appointed the title “HGA”; we’re just playing it fast & loose with the term; I contacted my higher consciousness, but 2 other entities as far as I know are also labeled “HGA”, the Abramelin one and the angel ruling the zodiac sign and degree you were born under as mentioned in the Ars Paulina prt. II.

See this article for another HGA summoning (Higher self).
