

I'll be talking about the Egyptian goddess Maat today, the goddess that stood for positive aspects of mundane and daily life; so order, balance, fairness, honesty and so on. Basically "proper etiquette".

Maat appears as Isis, a winged goddess that looks a lot like her, but of course not exactly like Her. To be honest, appearance-wise I prefer Isis, but that's okay. Nothing else can be said about physical features. Interestingly, my dog's name is Naat and I tease her sometimes about her being a canine goddess (lol) and because they sound so familiar, Maat appeared at a later stadium which I knew was going to happen.

She's Mercurial (27° in Gemini- artist) and a powerful at that; She's good for all things that deal with daily life, along with domestic life and related matters. Practical applications are money, family life, communication, short distance travel and so on. Law & justice are also on the table, but not her strong suit. Still good for that, though.

Interesting (not too much) stories about Her are here; also prayers etc. here.

PS I share these since I have no real experience in working with Her.
