

COVID-19, for occultists and others that have an interest in it, reminds them (some overlook it or lose sight of it) that even as a magician or whatever one wishes to call himself/herself there is so much that lies outside one's control. You can improve upon your own personal life up to a certain degree or extent, but that is it- global events are still something you'll be subject to in general, depending on how you live and where in the world you reside.

This is simply something to keep in mind and a reminder to all out there to put yourself first, as in: put your well-being & objectives at the top of the metaphorical list and remind yourself that you are still human, NOT superhuman regardless of how enlightened or skilled you are in the Art(s).
